Special to NEWS REVIEW.

FINDLAY, Sept. 27.—The Republican campaign was opened in this place today, and amid the booming of cannon, and the loud plaudits of the multitude Governor William McKinley was given an ovation which pales to insignificance the reception accorded him in Akron a year ago.

The town is handsomely decorated for the great event, and people began to pour in as early as yesterday. All roads apparently led to Findlay, and throngs were willing and ready to greet the great man who would speak to them today. Excursion trains brought thousands from Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus, while Toledo and the smaller cities of the northwest poured in in a great multitude. The crowd was one of those enthusiastic, good natured gatherings ever ready to cheer a favorite and scowl upon an enemy. But there seems to be no enemies, and enthusiasm is the order of the day. An elaborate program was prepared by the state committee and the local organization, and it is being carried out without a serious hitch or break. The most prominent Republicans of Ohio are here, and not a few Democrats of state reputation were there to hear the opening words. Among the most pleasing features of the day was a great parade. It was made up of marching clubs, mounted organizations, and floats representing the industries of the city. When it passed the reviewing stand the cheering was prolonged, and Governor McKinley's name went up from thousands of enthusiastic throats. Never before was the great protectionist received as he was today, and there seems to be a general understanding that he is the next president. More than one badge proudly worn bears the words, "For President, William McKinley, of Ohio," and a streamer with the same inscription caused the wagon on which it was tacked to be greeted by cheer upon cheer. A mighty throng had gathered to hear the governor make the address of the day, and when he stepped to the front of the platform the enthusiasm knew no bounds. After at least five minutes of prolonged cheering he was permitted to talk, and in his easy but earnest manner said:

MR. PRESIDENT AND MY FELLOW CITIZENS: In November, 1892, a Republican National administration, able, efficient and patriotic, which had conducted the government with marked ability and fidelity for nearly four years, at the head of which was one of our greatest Presidents, General Benjamin Harrison, was voted out of power. Both those who assisted and those who opposed this decree of the people, for the most part, have been unhappy and regretful ever since. In obedience to this decree the Democratic party has been in supreme control of the Government for nearly 19 months, and for the greater part of that time it has been engaged in trying to revise the tariff.

This period has given to the American people an opportunity for sober reflection. It has been the discipline of adversity. It has been their chief occupation, for little employment in their former fields of labor has waited upon them. The people have been thinking, and those who have not been thinking have been feeling the stress of the times wrought by the great change. It has been a season of universal education—compulsory education, if it is true—but its lessons are practical, profitable, and, I believe, permanent.

After all, the form of instruction which is most effective and enduring is experience. We have had that in abundance, but have not been blessed with much else. We know more than we did two years ago and we are better prepared than ever before for the intelligent exercise of the highest rights and privileges of American citizenship. Even the eyes of the blindest partisans have been opened, and men who have heretofore never been able to see any good in the Republican party and who voted its policy "a fraud and a robbery" are now eager for a reconsideration and change.

The Democratic Tariff Revision. The party in power availing itself of the opportunity given it in 1892 has at length succeeded in revising the tariff, but it must have been apparent, even to Congress, that the people had already revised their opinions and were filled with anxiety to pass judgment on their work. It did not take the people as long to revise their views as it did Congress to revise the tariff. They have neglected no opportunity to speak, and they could not have spoken in tones more emphatic nor less likely to be misunderstood. I doubt if we fully realize the remarkable reversal in public opinion. It is exemplified in history, and well worth the attention of every thoughtful observer, and especially should it be instructive to those who have a remnant to serve in the present Congress. Let me hastily review this revolution in sentiment since the last National election.

You will remember that in 1892 the Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts was elected by a plurality of 2,534, but in 1893 the Democratic candidate for the same office was defeated by a Republican plurality of 35,697 votes. This was a Republican gain of more than 33,000 votes in a single year, while Governor Greenhalge had a greater plurality by nearly 30,000 votes than was cast for the Republican ticket at the national election of the preceding year.

In the Empire State of New York in 1892 President Cleveland received a plurality of 45,518 votes, but this was changed in 1893 into a Republican plurality of 24,484 for Hon. John Palmer for Secretary of State. Here was the significant Republican gain of more than 70,000 votes in "the pivotal State," which usually decides our National elections.

Republican Plurality Doubled. In reliable old Pennsylvania, the Republican banner state in 1892, the plurality for our national ticket was 63,747. This was more than doubled in 1893, when Mr. Jackson, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, received the splendid plurality of 135,146 votes.

In Iowa, too, the Republicans have made most gratifying gains. In 1892 the Republican plurality for the national ticket was 22,905, although the Democratic candidate for governor had carried the state the previous year by a 2,216 plurality. In 1893, Hon. F. D. Jackson, the Republican candidate for governor, defeated Governor Boies for re-election by a plurality of 32,356, a Republican gain over the preceding gubernatorial election of 40,582 votes.

In the state of Ohio the Republican plurality in 1892 was 1,072. This was changed in 1893 into a Republican plurality of 90,965. Here was a Republican gain of 79,893 in a single year, or of more than 59,000 as compared with the result of the gubernatorial election of 1891.

Nor has this Republican tidal wave received any check since. The present year began with remarkable Republican victories, and they have continued unintermittently ever since. You will recollect that on Jan. 30 two congressmen were elected in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth districts of New York city, at special elections. The first of these was carried by Hon. L. E. Quigg, the Republican candidate, by a plurality of 984 votes, although the same district gave a Democratic plurality in 1892 of 8,825. In the other district the Republicans were not successful, but they reduced the Democratic plurality of 11,969 to 4,487. Here was a Republican gain of nearly 17,000 in the very strongholds of Tammany.

Almost a Landslide. This was followed in a few weeks by a similar astonishing gain in the Republican Gibraltar of Pennsylvania. A congressman-at-large was elected in that state in February, and Hon. Galusha A. Grow, the veteran Republican, who was the candidate, received the phenomenal plurality of 187,819, in a total vote of about 800,000, a Republican gain of 52,000 over the preceding November election.

At the spring, or local municipal elections this year, the same unprecedented Republican victories were everywhere recorded throughout the country. None were more significant and sweeping than those in Indiana.

In the election in Rhode Island in 1893, the Democratic candidate for governor had a plurality of 185. But in April, 1894, in a contest between the same candidates, the Republican plurality was more than 5,600 in about the same total vote.

From distant Oregon, on the Pacific coast, in June, also came the same cheering tidings. In 1893 Judge Frank A. Moore, for the supreme bench received 2,575 plurality; but in June this year Hon. William P. Lord, the Republican candidate for governor, received the unexpected majority of 15,000 over Pierce, the Populist, and 22,000 majority over Galloway, the Democratic candidate.

In the Green Mountain State. In Vermont in 1892 the Republican candidate for governor had a plurality of 19,702. This year at the election on September 14th the Republican plurality for General Woodbury for governor was nearly 28,000, while the total vote was approximately the same as before.

From Maine, too, comes the same glorious news. In 1892 the plurality for Governor Cleaves in September was 12,531, and for General Harrison in November 14,857. This year, on Sept. 11, the plurality for Governor Cleaves was more than 37,000, and it is hard to estimate what it would be if they had another national election just ahead of them.

Thus hastily I have reviewed the revolution of public sentiment in the last 18 months, and many of the great states are yet to speak. It is to be observed, too, that a great change in public sentiment is going

BUILD A STONE YARD

Ex-Mayor Morley Would Make Prisoners Work.

CRACKING STONE IS HEALTHY

And it is Profitable Because the Township Trustees Will Buy the Product—A Substitute For the Proposed Punishment of the Workhouse.

Although George Morley no longer holds office in the city, he continues to keep an eye upon the trend of events, and is as deeply interested in East Liverpool as when he was the mayor, dispensing justice to the evil doers who persist in breaking the law.

Mr. Morley has always been interested in the punishment of those who come within range of the courts, and believes that the city should provide some means whereby the law could be made more effectual than it has in the past. In speaking to a News Review man of the question of sending prisoners to some penal institution, where they could work out their fines, the ex-mayor recalled the fact that the city already had a contract with the Cleveland workhouse, a copy of the document being in the possession of Solicitor Clark. The gentleman, however, does not have a great deal of faith in workhouses, as his experience taught him that they are by far too expensive a luxury to ever serve as an institution of general worth in the dispensation of justice. From documents and data in his possession Mr. Morley shows that the contract with the Cleveland institution has amounted to little, and was so expensive when in use that the finance committee of council entered strong objection to the collection of fines in that way. He believes that some system should be adopted which will do away with the number of regulars in police court, who are prone to break the law, knowing that nothing can be collected from them, and the city will not bear the expense of feeding them week in and week out. He cites a number of instances where men were incarcerated, and only laughed at the authorities when an attempt was made to make them pay for breaking the law. Some of these fellows have done almost the same thing with Mayor Gilbert, that is, he has been compelled to release them on a promise to pay, since he had no desire to make the taxpayers support the culprits with three good meals each day, and a place to sleep whenever they so desired.

Mr. Morley suggests a remedy that is not as expensive as the workhouse system, but will undoubtedly result in some men keeping clear of city hall and the edict of Mayor Gilbert. He would have a piece of ground fenced as to make it secure. Then a few loads of lime stone could be hauled within the enclosure. After that council might order the purchase of a few hammers, and an equal number of small wooden benches. Then East Liverpool would be prepared to entertain its guests in a manner befitting a common drunk, or even satisfy the luxurious tastes of some knights of the road who delight in finding slumber upon the soft side of boards, behind stone walls and grated doors. They could also reimburse the city for providing such pleasant accommodations. A fine in the police court would mean, if the culprit had no money, a few days on the stone pile. Any ordinary man can do a good day's work at breaking stone, which will pay his board to the city and leave a margin for liquidation of the fine imposed by the mayor. Then broken limestone makes the best kind of piling and the roads leading to the city are not so good but what they could endure a bountiful supply about twice each year. The township trustees have stated that they were willing to pay a little this way and would use some of the stone. There are streets in the city which would be benefited if covered with the material, and council might do away with the awful board walks by substituting a neat walk of cracked stone. If there would be no prisoners to crack the stone the city would be the richer in fines, and the moral influence of the stone pile would doubtless result in many paying who have in the past kept their money to themselves, and said nothing.

Council might spend more money, and look farther for a means of collecting fines than a stone pile, but it is doubtful if a more effective remedy can be found than the home institution. Mayor Gilbert says he must have some influence of this kind, and its necessity is readily seen by those who have watched the returns from police court.

The Play.

The "Charity Ball" filled the Grand last night to overflowing, and the Elks and their friends were treated to a performance which has had no equal in this city in years. The piece is well written, and as it was given last night was well cast. The young minister was the embodiment of quiet dignity and earnest action, while Miss Mabel Strickland, as Bess Van Buren, was the acknowledged pet of the audience. Morgan Sidney, as Judge Knox, was a character of peculiar creation, and John Stapleton in the form of Dick Van Buren gave a tinge of ambitious devilishness to the piece. Miss Nellie Strickland and Miss Berenice Wheeler filling the respective forms of Phyllis Lee and Ann Cruger were the embodiment of womanly characteristics. Taken all in all the "Charity Ball" pleased the theater loving people of this city.

WHITE CAPPED.

A West Virginia Man Driven Out of the Country.

Word comes from West Virginia of a case of white capping which occurred about six miles back from the river the other night.

James Rigdon is said to have been the victim of the white caps' fury. He resided on a farm in Hancock county and was somewhat surprised when recently he received a notice to make himself scarce. He was not inclined to go and although the warning was to all appearances genuine he imagined it was merely a bluff. Just how much bluff there was in connection with the affair Rigdon learned when a band of 25 men paid him a visit. They were prepared for business, and James decided to visit a friend somewhere in another section of the state. It was nip and tuck between James and the white caps for several miles, but James had a horse and his pursuers had none, so he escaped and has not been heard from since.

So far as could be learned the only desire of the vigilance committee, as some style them, was to rid that section of the man, although for what reason the informant of this paper did not know.

FOR FORTY YEARS

Mrs. John Huffman Had Not Seen Her Uncle.

Forty years is a long time but Mrs. John Huffman, of this city, saw her uncle Henry Ellis yesterday for the first in all that time.

Mr. Ellis is a resident of Kansas City, Kan., and was visiting friends in Louisville, Ky., when he found he had time to run to this city, and see the niece from whom he had so long been separated. He had planned a pleasant surprise and a visit of several days, but the Huffman's had moved from the address he had and he spent all day hunting them. When he finally did locate his niece he had only a few minutes to catch the train which was to take him to Pittsburgh, so the pleasure of the meeting was destined to be short lived. Mrs. Huffman was in bed seriously ill when her uncle arrived and she did not recognize him, but thought he was her father whom she has not seen for years. Her father is a Grand Army man as is Mr. Ellis, and the resemblance between the brothers is strong.

A Gathering of Workers.

The sixth annual convention of Young People's societies connected with the United Presbyterian church was held yesterday in Toronto. East Liverpool was well represented, Miss Minnie Quay, Ernest Orr and Clarence Meador being delegates from the First church, while Miss Hanley, John Hanley and Bert Chambers were from the Second. Miss Quay was elected to a position on the executive committee, and she also read an interesting paper founded on the word "Methods." The others from this city who were present were: Miss Annie Pope, Miss Sadie Dicke, Miss Hattie Andrews, Miss Sadie Buchanan, Miss Lizzie Metz, Miss Nellie Ogilvie, Miss Maggie Laughlin, Arthur Metz, Frank W. George, William Hoff, David Reed, Miss Kate McIntosh, Miss Maggie Huston. The Juniors were represented by Misses Carrie Gaston and Allie Laughlin. D. F. White, of Mechanistown, formerly of East End, was elected president of the society.

A Premature Serenade.

A crowd of small boys learned in some manner last evening that there was a wedding at the residence of George Garner, Jackson street, and securing the instruments of torture commonly used on such occasions proceeded to the house. After a few minutes of fiendish noise and several ineffectual attempts to convince the crowd that no marriage had taken place, Garner ran to the patrol station, and informed Patrolman Meador of the assault upon his home. The officer hastened to the scene, and the youngsters scattered and fled in all directions. There were no arrests.

CALLED TO THE CHURCH

Presbyterians Choose the Rev. Dr. Lee.

THE CHOICE WAS UNANIMOUS

And He Will be Notified at Once—A Salary of $2,500 a Year Decided Upon—He Was Educated at Wooster and Princeton—and is a Brilliant Talker.

At the congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church last evening, it was unanimously decided to call Rev. J. L. Lee, L. L. D., to the place made vacant by the resignation of Doctor Marshall.

Doctor Lee is at present pastor of a church in Minneapolis, but originally came from Ohio his home being at Crestline. He attended Wooster university, and when quite a young man was graduated. But this did not satisfy his thirst for knowledge, and he continued his work in the theological department of Princeton college. When he had been duly declared a minister of the gospel he took a charge in Philadelphia, remaining there two years. While there the people of Minneapolis heard of his power, and he was called to the western city. There he has been very successful in the work, and is held in high esteem by his congregation. When his fame spread to this city the church authorities decided to have him come and preach to the congregation. Mr. F. D. Kitchell had heard the gentleman in Minneapolis, and was so pleased with him that the people soon knew a pastor was in prospect. The congregation decided to make the salary $2,500 a year, and it is thought that Doctor Lee will accept. He is a speaker of wonderful force and power, and possesses the enviable faculty of preaching a magnificent sermon with few notes. He is married and has two sons, and bears the reputation of being an affable gentleman whose friends are firm and loyal. It is to be hoped that he will find it in heart to accept the call.

May Take a Trip.

Leader Curfman, of the Girls band contemplates a move entirely new with that organization soon. The band has attracted so much attention and have been the recipients of so many requests to visit outside towns and play that they will probably make a tour after the style of theatrical or concert troops. One night stands at different towns will be tried for a week and if successful the girls, after taking a rest, may continue. The band is now in the best of condition, being entirely free from debt and with a stock of splendid instruments on hand, manipulated by those who know how to play them best.

Not Much Wonder.

The Uhrichsville correspondent to the Cleveland Leader says in giving the account of yesterday's base ball contest between the Real Estates, of New Philadelphia, and the Twin City team of Uhrichsville and Dennison, that "it was rather a one-sided game." This is nothing to cause surprise if the correspondent only knew the players. It would require a nine much stronger than the Real Estates to beat such a combination as Mercer, the Carey boys, Westlake brothers, Curt Welch and Johnny Daniels, all of the Ceramic City. It would take the best club in the league to hold those players level.

A Fierce Battle.

Claude Hendricks and Will Chambers, two embryo East End pugilists, became involved in a quarrel on the streets the other evening and the lie was passed. In a twinkling they were engaged in combat, and the battle raged fiercely. After the crowd had gathered the two were separated, and peace once more smiled on the East End. But there was another chapter in the story when an officer went there last evening, and arrested both boys. They were taken before the mayor, and requested to contribute $7.50 each to the city treasury.

Has Relatives Here.

The Pittsburg papers contain an interesting tale today of a poor carpenter who found $75,000 in a secret drawer in the house of a wealthy family in that city. They have relatives and are known to a number of persons here. The money has been missing for a long time, and no one knew where to find it although the heirs were positive that it existed.

Sold His Dog.

W. T. Tebbutt has sold his valuable St. Bernard dog to a Pittsburg man, and the streets of the city will know the big fellow no more. He brought a good price.

LAKE HURON DISASTER

Kershaw's Captain Accused of Neglecting Drowning Men.

FIVE FROM IRONTON PERISHED.

The Ohio's Crew All Saved—A Survivor Says the Two Vessels Failed to Exchange Signals—A Sad Goodbye—Conflicting Stories Told.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27.—Particulars received here by those who witnessed the collision between the steamer Ohio and the schooner Iron-ton on Lake Huron are conflicting. Captain Hunt and the crew of the schooner Moonlight, who picked up the crew of the Ohio, have issued a statement charging the captain of the steamer Kershaw, who was in command of the Iron-ton, with neglecting to refuse to lower a boat to rescue the Ohio's crew and with refusing to stand by the wreckage until daylight.

Captain Connor of the Kershaw and his crew contradict this statement, and say they picked up the Ohio's crew half an hour after the wreck, and rescued the Ohio's mate two hours later. Five of the Iron-ton's crew have undoubtedly perished, the other two having been picked up by the steamer Hebard.

The collision is thought to have been caused by a failure of the two vessels to exchange signals.

A special from Sault Ste Marie says: William Woolley, a member of the Iron-ton's crew, who has reached here, says: "Our tow line became fouled when the Kershaw's machinery became disabled about midnight, and we were under full sail. At 1 o'clock we sighted the Ohio. I heard no signals exchanged. After the crash came, without a word the Ohio left us, going down the lake, while we passed up. The Iron-ton did not sink for three hours after the collision."

"Perry and I were the only ones who got into the yawl, which immediately capsized, after which we clung to the wreckage. After catching onto the box of the wheel box, and John Pape, a sailor, who was clinging to some wreckage. Pape was moaning as though injured, and called good-bye to us. We were picked up by the Hebard at about 4 o'clock. The only members of the crew I know are Captain Peter Girard of Cleveland, Mate Ed Bostick of Whitebrook, Mich., and John Pape, a German sailor, all of whom I believe were drowned with the rest of the crew. No orders were given to lower the yawl by Captain Girard, and only Perry and I were overloaded enough to cut it loose. When the Iron-ton sank she went down in less than three minutes."

FIGHTING A TAX LAW.

Corporation's Injunctions Being Served in Southern Ohio Counties.

WOODSFIELD, O., Sept. 27.—Deputy Clerk White, of the United States court at Columbus, is going through Monroe, Belmont and Harrison counties serving the injunctions obtained by the express and telegraph companies, restraining the collection of taxes under the Nichols-Whitely law.

Nearly all the auditors in the state have anticipated this action, and placed the amounts assessed on the duplicates, and the officials hold that the taxes will have to be paid and the contests be made afterward if the companies persist in their determination to fight this law.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27.—Jennie Thompson, alias Campbell, wife of the notorious Joe Campbell, now serving a term in the Kentucky penitentiary, was tried in police court on a charge of stealing a quantity of cheap jewelry from Mrs. Mattie Phillips. Judge Bigler discharged her, the evidence being insufficient to find her over.

Breckinridge during the recent exciting campaign, will be published in book form. Several of his friends have the matter in hand. Several official interviews will also be included in the book. The book will be as handsome as the printers and bookbinders can make it.

Two hundred copies of the books are to be an edition de luxe, are to be given some of the colonel's staunch supporters as souvenirs of his historic race. The public libraries of the country will also be presented with handsome copies of the book.

Selec on the New Association.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27.—Manager Sele of the Boston club regarding the new National association, "I see that the Overman Bicycle company denies the story that it is back of the proposed new association. In my opinion that knocks the last prop from beneath the fabric of rumors that has been built up by enterprising space writers regarding the National association." Some of the clubs in alarm at the possible success of this new venture, have signed several of their best men for next season. The Cincinnati club officials have no fears that anybody will try to steal their stars, and show their opinion of the rumors now afloat by the fact that they have not yet even asked a single man to sign.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 27.—The case of Josephine Johnson against Dudley Corkwell for $10,000 damages is on trial in the common pleas court. Both parties to the suit live in Deer Creek township. Miss Johnson, who was formerly a schoolteacher, claims the above damages, charging breach of promise and betrayal. Corkwell kept company with Miss Johnson for years until last winter, when suddenly he quit and in three weeks had married another lady of the neighborhood.

WELLMAN GETS HOME.

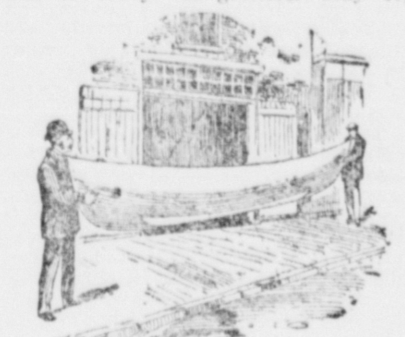

The Intrepid Explorer and Party in New York.

GRAPHIC STORY OF HIS TRIP.

A Hard Fight to Overcome the Obstacles of Storm and Ice—Finally Compelled to Turn Back—The Party Suffers Great Hardships.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Arctic Explorer Wellman and his party have reached New York on the steamer Spree. Mr. Wellman tells the following story of the expedition:

On the 1st of May we left the town of Tromsø, in Norway, on the steamer Ragnvald Jarl, with 25 persons, all told, 16 of whom belonged to the expedition, and nine to the crew. We reached Spitzbergen on the 7th day of May, latitude 79.45, depositing a large quantity of provisions, leaving in charge Prof. Oyen, a Norwegian geologist, who was to study the glaciers. May 10, finding open water on the northern coast of Spitzbergen, the steamer was headed for the southern island, 150 miles to the northeast. After several battles with the ice, we reached Table land on the 12th of May, and were then in latitude 80.50, or within 550 miles of the North pole, within 150 miles as far as had been reached by the Lockwood and Brainard expedition. Thus far had we advanced in 11 days from civilization, having covered as much ground in that time as other expeditions had in months, or even years.

Up to this time the season had promised to be a favorable one and we had hoped in a few days to be able to set out on a journey over the ice-pack to the northeast. Storms now set in on the 15th and vast quantities of broken ice went drifting past. On the 17th the steamer was forced to the north, a little past the 81st parallel and was then driven back by the floating ice, through which no steamer, though she were as large as the Spree could have forced her way.

Finding what appeared to be perfectly safe anchorage on the shore of Walden island, the expedition left the ship on May 24. We were 14 men, having three aluminum boats, five aluminum sledges and 45 draft dogs from Belgium. Our course was to the eastward, skirting the northern shore of Northeastland, where the ice, though exceedingly rough in places, was yet practically as rough.

Four days later we received word by messenger that the ship had been crushed by the ice. Fortunately most of the stores were saved. Notwithstanding this loss of the ship, which cut off our line of retreat, we decided to go on. After exploring most of the coast of the Northeastland we found the ice thrown up in hopeless confusion in every direction. We made an effort with one boat and a picked crew of eight men to advance to the north, but so rough was the ice that after four days of indescribable effort we found that we had advanced less than four miles. The same conditions of ice existed as far as the eye could see.

Further progress being impossible, we made our way back through many dangers and difficulties to Walden island, often wading in water up to our waists. One member of the party, Mr. Alme, the meteorologist, broke his leg. Mr. Alme had to be dragged in the boat over the ice and slush.

No change occurring in the extremely unfavorable nature of the season, which might give us an opportunity to still work farther north, we set out on Aug. 4 to fight our way through drifting ice to the main land of Spitzbergen, and in this we were successful. After a hard struggle of four days we reached Low island, and there found a Norwegian hunting party, the Berentine, which we hired to carry us back to our headquarters at Dane's island. After that we went to Norway, where he arrived on the 15th of August.

Explorer Wellman looks well and hearty and is already making plans and preparations for another expedition next year.

Bayard Will Sail October 6.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—United States Ambassador Bayard will return from South Saturday. With his daughter, Mrs. Warred, and Secretary Carter, the ambassador will sail on the steamer Paris, on Oct. 6, for New York. Arriving there, he will go direct to Washington and then to Wilmington, Del. Mr. Bayard will return to London the middle of November.

Germans After the Africans.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Dispatches received here from the German colony in Southwest Africa says that Major Leutwein, on Aug. 27, stormed Chief Wilboof's camp at Nankluft. Chief Wilboof, treated and afterwards sent for peace. The German loss was 9 killed and 11 wounded.

Editor Expelled From Italy.

ROME, Sept. 27.—The Abbe Montenis, a Frenchman and one of the editors of the Monteur from Italy, has been expelled from Italy, for his repeated attacks, through the columns of his journal, upon the law institutions of Italy.

LOCAL BREVITIES

F. R. Gordon has shipped his household goods to Cleveland for residence.

Mrs. McClain, of Hazel avenue, is seriously ill with an attack of bronchitis.

Several couples from this city attended a party across the river last night, and returned home shortly after midnight.

The residents of Lincoln avenue are well pleased with the work of Street Commissioner Welch in repairing that thoroughfare. Lincoln avenue now presents a much better appearance.

J. B. Doll, who has been in business on Sixth street for some time but recently sold out, left this morning with his wife and family for Anderson, Ind., where he expects to make his home.

Work was begun today on the improvements at city hall, for which the township trustees offered to help council pay in rent at the meeting Tuesday night. The city building will be much more convenient when the new arrangements are completed.

Contractor Ryan evidently means to pave Third street before it gets very cold as he began by plowing up the ground yesterday, and his force of men are hard at work today. This should be appreciated when compared with some other streets in the city at the present time.

Joseph Laughlin left yesterday for Columbus where he will enter Starling Medical college to study for a doctor, taking a three years course. The gentleman is a brother of Dr. Robert Laughlin, railroad physician at Steubenville, and Dr. F. M. Laughlin, of this city.

The little daughter of Will DeBece had a narrow escape from death Sunday. The child was playing about the family boat along the river when she fell in. The child was struggling in the water and waving her hands frantically when Mr. DeBece's mother heard her and came to the rescue.

Many East Liverpool people took advantage of excursion rates on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh today, 90 tickets being sold for Pittsburgh this morning and 137 for Beaver. The exhibition and the fair are proving great attractions. A good sale of tickets for Cleveland is expected on Saturday next.

Professor F. L. Parker, of New Brighton, was in the city yesterday afternoon on business pertaining to the dancing class which is at present arranging for headquarters in Turner hall. East Liverpool will have two dancing classes this fall, the Alphan society being instructed by Professor Christy in Bradshaw hall.

Truant Officer Beardmore states that he is having less trouble so far this year with youngsters than at the same time during the last term. This is probably one effect of the mistake made last year in not appointing such an officer until a month after the schools had opened. Mr. Beardmore has not yet had occasion to arrest any of the youths.

The only prisoners in the city jail today are Cochran and Allison. Brown having paid his fine yesterday and was released. McCann, the old man who told a story of being assaulted and robbed was also allowed to go. Calvin Davis was taken to New Lisbon by Chief Gill this morning for stealing a satchel leaving the two occupants behind.

The funeral of Mrs. David Kerr took place at 10 o'clock this morning from the late residence of the deceased on Third street, the remains being taken to Georgetown, Pa., her former home for interment. Mrs. Kerr died with blood poisoning at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. She was aged about 35 years, and leaves a husband.

A horse attached to an express wagon was standing in the Diamond yesterday evening when a street car scared the animal, and it backed the vehicle into the curb. A son of the expressman was thrown to the pavement and it was thought at first that his arm was broken, but it was only badly bruised. The lad was not seriously injured.

The river has dropped so low that a continuance of the boating stare is no longer a possibility unless the clouds contribute a liberal rainfall on the western slope of the mountains and throughout the valley. Shippers manifest a keen disappointment, as they expected a good stage during the fall and would have taken advantage of the water to get their shipments south.

There was fun in a street car bound for Wellsville shortly after the opera had concluded last night. A young man had succeeded in seating his partner, and was looking about for room for himself when the car gave a lurch and he sat down suddenly and with great force upon a colored lady. She called him down in a manner which made the young man's ears tingle while the other passengers were almost exploding with laughter. Finally he escaped from the hurricane, and as he stood on the rear platform all the way down he looked sad.

A FIGHT IN A BUGGY

BUT BERT BEAUMONT ESCAPES

Rinehart Charges Him With Attempting to Steal a Horse and Buggy and Detective Lazarus Arrests Him—An Exciting Time Between Rochester and This City.

John Rinehart, of Second street, had an exciting experience Tuesday which he will not soon forget.

On Sunday, according to his story, Bert Beaumont came up from New Cumberland and hired a team and buggy under the pretense that he wanted to take a lady friend for a drive through the country. He promised to return the vehicle at night. Sunday evening came and passed and Monday morning dawned, but the outfit did not appear. The deliveryman felt somewhat anxious, but waited until Tuesday morning in the hope that all was well. Still nothing was seen of Beaumont or the team and then Rinehart investigated. He telephoned to Freedom, having heard that Beaumont was in that section. Word was received that a party answering to his description had been in that section somewhere, but could not be located at that time. Then Rinehart put the old reliable detective, Bernard Lazarus on the case. Soon the officer had captured Beaumont at Rochester, and sent Rinehart word to that effect. Rinehart went up on the afternoon train, and started with Beaumont and the outfit towards this city, intending, he says, to prefer a charge of theft. When about half way between Rochester and this city Beaumont showed fight. A struggle ensued in the carriage and from all accounts there was a lively battle. Rinehart claims to have been the victor, but it was necessary to let Beaumont up in order to proceed. Then his prisoner leaped from the buggy and ran. Rinehart gave chase, but the New Cumberland man was too swift for him and escaped.

Rinehart proceeded a short distance when the horses gave out and he made the remainder of the journey on the train. The horses he claims had not a bite to eat since they started from the barn and were in terrible condition. He feels confident that Beaumont will yet be captured, and says he intends pushing the charge against him.

Funeral This Morning.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Andrew Allabaugh were held at the family residence in East End last night, and many friends from the city proper were present on this mournful occasion. The remains were taken to Wellsville this morning on a street car and interred in the cemetery there. The deceased was a Mason and an old soldier of General Lyon Post, G. A. R., but it was the desire of the relatives that the funeral be private, and consequently neither body attended.

Well Started.

The school of ceramics at the state university is well started, and bids fair to be successful even through the first year. The local potteries have donated a complete collection of pottery in all stages of the process of manufacture, from the clay in the bins to the decorated with rich gold tracings and pretty flowers ready for the table. This will embrace all the lines of pottery made at East Liverpool or in the state, including porcelain vitrified, electric insulating appliances and door knobs.

A New Pottery.

A special to the Cleveland Press from Port Washington, a small town on the Panhandle railway, contains the following interesting information. "Parties from Liverpool and Canal Dover begin the erection of a large plant here, this week, for the purpose of manufacturing paving brick, pottery and tiling."

If there are any persons from this city interested in the scheme they are keeping it to themselves as diligent search failed to find them.

Well Supplied.

With a fakir in the Diamond last night and a German band, organ grinder, scissor sharpener and an umbrella mender in the city today, East Liverpool is well supplied with travelers. The fakir man sold electric belts, and many who had forgotten their liver pad experience of a few years ago purchased freely. Wellsville will be worked by the fakir to-night.

Sued For Wages.

Frank W. Rowe entered suit yesterday in Squire Rose's court against Thomas McGuire, claiming $13.35, due for work and labor. The case will be heard before the squire on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. F. D. Kitchell will entertain a large party of friends at her pleasant home, on Fifth street, this evening.

SALINEVILLE.

The county commissioners were in town Tuesday night.

I. B. Cameron was in the village last Wednesday on business.

Davy Jones, a young son of Isaac Jones, died Tuesday of malarial fever.

Reverend Huddleston, of the Methodist Episcopal church, has been returned to this village for another year.

The verdict of $8,000 awarded Harry Davison, who was fatally injured in the slope mine three years ago last April, has just been sustained by the circuit court.

Reverend W. F. McLaughlin, of the First Presbyterian church, of this place, will preach a sermon on the subject of "Friendship" to the Knights of Pythias and Rathbone sisters next Sabbath evening.

The Coxey bill posters camped in Tid Ball hollow last night. A committee consisting of ex-Mayor Ferrall and Robert McGonagle walked to escort them to the village. About five men and twenty small boys hailed their entrance with delight. The show itself will be here next Tuesday.

Will Get the Mill.

The New Lisbon people are jubilant because it is now certain that the tin plate mill will be built on the Arter property. It is thought that the buildings will all be erected before the cold weather comes, three of them being made entirely of iron. The switch from the railroad has been placed under contract and the county seat believes it will boom without delay.

Why He is on a Vacation.

Clyde R. Larkins, of East Liverpool, is visiting at John H. Young's, of Seventh avenue. Mr. Larkins clerks for Barnes, the grocer, when at home, but Barnes gave him two or three days to get the butter wiped off his chin and the turnips shook out of his hair, so he came to Beaver county to see the pumpkin show this week.—Beaver Falls Tribune.

An Elevator Dropped.

An elevator spout collapsed in Metcalf's mill last night and let a car load of grain fall from the second floor. Part of the grain was scattered over the first floor, but the greater portion fell clear to the basement. To elevate it again will be a difficult job.

Mrs. Huffman is seriously ill with nervous prostration at her home near Broadway.

HILL LIKELY TO RUN.

He Makes a Speech Thanking the New York Democracy For the Honor.

ALBANY, Sept. 27.—Senator Hill and Hon. Daniel N. Lockwood, the candidates for governor and lieutenant governor respectively, were serenaded last night at the Kenmore hotel, when they came from Saratoga, by the Albany Democratic phalanx. A mighty swell of voices went up when Senator Hill was introduced. He said:

"Fellow Democrats and gentlemen of the Albany Phalanx: For this gracious reception and the compliment of this serenade, I tender you my sincere thanks. This demonstration is a part of unexpected events of a day which to me has been one of mingled surprise and embarrassment. The action of the Democratic convention, which is the occasion of this assemblage, and which was unforeseen by you as by myself, impose responsibilities and obligations of which I cannot speak tonight.

"Unwilling as I was to receive the honor which the convention, in spite of my protest, has sought to confer upon me, I am deeply touched by the unusual manifestation of confidence and esteem which accompanied the action of the convention, and tonight I can only express, in feeble language, a small part of the gratitude I feel toward the Democracy of New York."

The scene when Senator Hill was nominated is indescribable. In spite of his refusals the convention delegates, on their feet, reiterated their demands for his acceptance of the nomination. Hon. Daniel N. Lockwood of Buffalo was named for lieutenant governor and Judge Gaynor for associate judge of the court of appeals, both by acclamation.

The Japs Leave For China.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The advice from Tokio stating that a second Japanese army of 30,000 men has sailed from Hiroshima is regarded in official circles here as the first move in the advance on the Chinese capital, Peking. It is pointed out that there is no need of Japanese reinforcements in Korea, as since the battle of Ping Yang the Japanese have had possession of Korea, and their first army of 15,000 men, needs no additions. It is believed by diplomats that the Japanese have turned their attention from Korea with a view of invading China.

A Noted Lecturer.

It is stated today that the Women's Christian Temperance union have been disappointed in having Miss Shaw lecture in this city one week from tomorrow evening. She was expected in Wellsville on the evening before, and the ladies decided that they could not let the opportunity pass.

Alvin Joslin and His Diamonds.

Alvin Joslin, diamonds, old clothes and all, will be at the Grand Saturday evening. According to the bills this is his last appearance, and he is now on a farewell tour through the country. Charles L. Davis has ever been successful in this city, and will doubtless have a big audience on Saturday.

Will Finish in a Week.

Work on the improvements at the Phoenix club rooms has advanced so far that the partitions are out and the process of rebuilding has commenced. It is expected that within a week the rooms will be finished and the annual meeting can be held in them a week from tomorrow evening.

Working on Third Street.

The second day of work on Third street shows that there is much to do, but the street will be greatly improved when the grading and paving is done. It is the purpose of the contractor to push the improvement while the good weather continues.

The Best in Town.

The best job printing in town is done in the job rooms of the News Review. The latest and best type in the market, and the workmanship can not be surpassed in the county. Leave a trial order some day, and you will be pleased at the result.

Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the Woman's Relief corps has been called by the president for tomorrow afternoon, and every member is earnestly requested to be there. Business connected with the coming inspection must be transacted.

Gone to College.

Harry Vordrey left this morning for Ann Arbor, Mich., accompanied by a friend from Pittsburgh, and both will enter college there. Mr. Vordrey's cousin, Norman, is attending the same school this year.

Foreign Attendance.

There were three street car loads of Wellsville people at the play last evening, and a large number came in from the county seat. A few from Steubenville and Wheeling were also in the audience.

BLOWING NORTHWARD

Atlantic Hurricane Carrying Everything Before It.

MAY REACH NEW YORK TODAY.

Great Loss of Life Feared on Islands Along the South Carolina Coast—Islands and Quarantine Station Desolated at Savannah—Much Damage Done.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The terrible hurricane which has been sweeping the southern coast for several days is coming this way with a velocity of 53 miles per hour. It will probably reach here tonight or tomorrow morning.

It is literally sweeping everything before it.

The Sea islands, off the South Carolina coast, have again been exposed apparently to the full fury of the cyclone and there has likely been a great loss of life.

The quarantine station at Savannah was deserted in the face of the storm by Dr. Graham and his corps of assistants, the sanitary board having set aside the regulations temporarily, and directed that the men do not expose themselves unnecessarily. In the storm of last August the quarantine station was almost destroyed.

Tybee island, facing the ocean at the entrance to the Savannah river, was also desolated. A special train was sent down, and all the women and children, and as many of the men as desired, were brought up to the city. A few men preferred to risk their lives to look after the property. Hutchinson island, in front of Savannah; Warsaw, Wilmington and other islands in that vicinity are practically depopulated, no one caring to repeat the experience of Aug. 27, 1902, when on each of them lives were lost and much damage done.

It is feared that the rice crop along the coast has been destroyed. Wilmington, N. C., and Orangeburg, S. C., report a terrific wind, doing great damage to property. A Jacksonville, Fla., dispatch says: Business is absolutely paralyzed. The Everet, the largest hotel in this city, is unroofed and flooded with water. The unfinished Union depot is blown down. The loss is $20,000 and a number of people are injured, but none killed. There is no communication from South Florida, but it is expected that many groves are totally ruined and orange crops are damaged incalculably. The streets of Jacksonville are flooded. The river is three feet above the normal. The wind at the mouth of the river recorded 80 miles an hour and Mayport is flooded and several houses inundated. No persons lost their lives there. Two houses in Jacksonville were blown down. No trains are arriving and departing from Jacksonville, many large washouts being reported.

Train Robbers Get Scared.

GALVESTON, Sept. 27.—The Santa Fe express was held up at a water tank south of Temple at 1 a. m. Two men ran the fireman and Engineer George Frank off the engine. They evidently had confederates and expected to rob the train, but the confederates were either at the wrong place or there was some misunderstanding. The fireman broke away from the robbers and reported the case to Conductor H. Weller. Meanwhile the brakeman came up and the robbers, believing he was the advance picket of a rescuing train crew, jumped from the engine and fled.

The Mothers' Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Miss Elizabeth Harrison addressed the National Mothers' convention at the kindergarten college upon the necessity of wholesome stories for the development of the child's mind. Miss Grace Fulmer of Chicago followed with an address upon the same topic and told several entertaining stories as an illustration. The attendance at the convention was very large, particularly from outside cities.

Columbia Formally Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Columbia has been formally accepted by Secretary Herbert for the contractors and a warrant issued for the final payment, amounting to about $88,000. The vessel has been in commission now since last spring, but under the terms of the contract the contractors were obliged to make good any defects discovered within six months after the trial trip.

Professor Swing is Better.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Prof. David Swing, the eminent divine, who has been critically ill with a complication of stomach disorder, was reported to be dying, but the report was emphatically denied by his family. Professor Swing was his physician said, much improved and will, it is thought, recover.

Will Shut Down Saturday.

CORBETT MUST FIGHT.

Fitzsimmons Challenges Him After Whipping Creedon In Two Rounds.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—The work of Bob Fitzsimmons in the second round when he knocked out Creedon, was the most marvelous ever seen in this section of the country. The three right-handers which Creedon received on the head in one, two, three order, amazed the spectators and dazed the recipient, but they were nothing from an artistic pugilistic point of view compared with the three heavy lefts delivered in the one, two, three order, on Creedon's nose, which floored the latest aspirant for middle-weight honors, and caused Creedon to fall the easiest prey of all Robert Fitzsimmons' adversaries.

BOB FITZSIMMONS.

Referee Duffy immediately announced Fitzsimmons' challenge to Champion Corbett, which the latter cannot ignore, as the former has whipped both Chynowski and Creedon, whom Corbett said he must first fight. The fight by rounds was as follows:

Round 1.—Both men felt each other for an opening. Fitzsimmons led. He was short, however, but he forced the fighting and landed a right on the head and Creedon scored a hard body blow. A moment later Creedon caught a left on the chin and one, two, three on the head. The men had to be separated by the referee. Creedon ducked beautifully from a right on the head.

Round 2.—Creedon missed a light left swing for the head, but he landed two rights on the body. Fitzsimmons scored two heavy rights and knocked Creedon down with a heavy right hand on the jaw. Fitzsimmons landed a heavy right on the jaw and the men had to be forced from a clinch. Creedon received two heavy rights on the jaw and three heavy rights on the body. Creedon knocked out by a heavy left on the jaw.
